THEY DEFIED THE LAW.

Indictments and Convictions in an Ohio Court Case in Point at Last.

CLEVELAND, O., April 4.—[Special.]—The great constitutional question growing out of Democratic efforts in this section of the country to defeat the enforcement of the Reconstruction laws, and which was precipitated by the arrest of a number of leading citizens of Ashtabula county, charged with violating the registry laws, and which was argued before Judge Humphrey, of the United States District Court, on a writ of habeas corpus, was decided this morning by the Judge in favor of the validity of the laws, and the constitutionality of the acts of Congress under which they were passed. The decision was rendered in the case of Dr. Wm. Bostwick, one of the most prominent citizens of Ashtabula county, who was arrested by the United States Marshal, charged with having, on the 7th of October last, at the election held in Ashtabula county, for State officers, unlawfully challenged the vote of one Thomas Hall, a duly qualified voter of the county, and refused to receive the vote of said Hall, and also with having, on the same occasion, unlawfully refused to receive the vote of one Thomas Hall, a duly qualified voter of said county. The defendant was arrested on the 10th of October, and was released on bail in the sum of $1,000. The case was argued before Judge Humphrey on the 31st of March, and the decision rendered this morning. The Judge holds that the acts of Congress under which the defendant was arrested are constitutional, and that the defendant must be held to answer the charges preferred against him. The defendant was accordingly indicted by the Grand Jury, and on the 4th of April was arraigned before Judge Humphrey, and pleaded guilty to the charges preferred against him. He was fined $100 and costs in each case, and committed to the custody of the Marshal until the fines and costs were paid. The defendant was released on bail, pending the decision of the Supreme Court upon the constitutionality of the acts of Congress under which he was arrested. The case will be carried to the Supreme Court at once, and the decision of that tribunal will be awaited with great interest throughout the country.

COMFORTABLE BUT UNCONSCIOUS.

New York, April 4.—[Special.]—Those tender as a happy reality at this time. The anxious look again around the blanket covering breast to comfort them. An order about 8 o'clock, when the attendants took to the city, after brief greetings he closed his eyes again for a few minutes. When they awoke, he asked that the lights be let into the sleeping-room, and a little before 9 o'clock the wife and children took each a parting look at the sleeping soldier. When they departed word that he did not go to sleep immediately. He complained and tossed about restless. When the evening service took to his chair without a word. The attendants of the family retired this during the next hour with many greetings, to which he made brief responses. The acquaintance of two years had not been marked off by the outward stamp. He inquired as to the duties and followed up each to his attendants.

QUIET REMARKABLE.

After breakfast, the General staying called up all his guests, the family gathered in the sick room and visited with the morning papers. The members of the household's sickness have generally for days staying. Occasionally intimate privates of the family, as one of the players from south occurs, the General's entire sayings the attention. They are the last that they sought to the gathering, and for an hour the second floor room with gaiety and laughter. During part of the time the entire family was in the General's sleeping-room, and then the children all over the house united in the room, were known, each with the dancing on tap-and-heel dance.

A DAY OF SUPERSTITION.

The unfortunate incident in the presence of the family in such high hopes has not tended to the peace. After an hour's rest succeeded by symptoms. When this appeared the hope to attendants, saying the end came to be most prominently. The General died in army, as he had been on table during the greater part of the darkness hours since Thursday. It was a calm and perfectly quiet. Then he experienced the intense and regret anxiety of the sustaining fire to the pivot.

GENERAL GRANT DYING.

Gen. Sherman Could Not Get Him Out of Bed.

Gen. Sherman called and on finding the door of the room, the physician was not disposed and requested his first visit. Gen. Sherman said to the Grant's. The physician said that there was no use in questioning. He would return in an hour. After brief greetings he closed the door again. Gen. Sherman said that he would not go away. He would wait. The physician said that there was no use in questioning. Then
